For Vice President.
THOS. R. MARSHALL,
of Indiana.

The bodies of the soldiers killed at Carrizal will be brought to El Paso.

A suit has been started to contest the good roads victory in Union county on the ground that the election was not legally advertised.

Utah troops was the first of more than 30,000 to reach the border under the President's general call. They arrived at Nogales Friday.

The New York Sun has been sold to Frank A. Munsey and becomes a member of the Associated Press. The price has been reduced to one cent.

Miss Lolita Amourr, daughter of J.
Ogden Armour, has applied to the authorities at Washington for enlistment as a Red Cross nurse and she is awaiting word which will send her among the first 100 women who will go to the Mexican border in the event war is declared.

For recent accomplishments in air battles on the western front, Sergeant Bert Hall, of Bowling Green, Ky., was given a military medal. Lieut.
Wm. Thaw, of Pittsburg, the cross of the legion of honor, and Sergeant Kiffen Rockwell, of Atlanta, Ga., a military medal by the allies.

Mustering in of Company I, First regiment, Indiana national guard, which was recruited at Indiana University, was an inspiring sight. The company, commanded by the Rev.
Thomas R. White, Presbyterian student pastor at the university, marched before the mustering in officer and took the oath to do battle under the orders of the President with only one dissenting voice.

In 1884 Charles J. Davie, then living in Baltimore, had an account with a savings bank but intending to move to Cecil county, drew most of his money, leaving a balance of 11 cents.
He thought no more about it until a few days ago, when he found the bank book. Out of curiosity he wrote to the bank and received a check for $3.78.

The La Center Advance is in error in attributing to the Kentuckian at statement that Capt. Chas. T. Boyd was a native of Christian County.
What was said was that a report was current here that a local man of the same name was the man killed at Carrizal, but the same paper stated that the rumor was not correct. The Kentuckian hardly ever goes off half cocked on matters of news. Generally, if you see it in the Kentuckian it is true.

"Will you start up that fireless cooker, Norah?" said the lady of the house.
"Sure I will, mum," replied the green girl. "Where's the matches?"—Yonkers

WILD SWANS ATTACK SHIP

Bombard Vessel Lying at Anchor Near Baltimore and Many Big Birds Are Caught.

Hundreds of wild swans, which had apparently lost their way in the fog, dashed against the steamer Ericsson early in the morning while the vessel was in the mouth of the Chesapeake bay. The huge birds shattered many panes of glass and caused so much disturbance that many passengers sprang from their berths and rushed on deck, thinking some mishap had befallen the boat.

Several of the birds were captured and were brought to this city on the steamer, which docked at Pier 3.
South wharves. F. S. Groves, president of the company, declared them the finest specimens he had ever seen. The prisoners, which were pure white in color, were among a number which flew in the forward gangway, which was open, and failed to find their way out on the other side of the boat. Some of the birds became confused among the cargo and were easily captured.

Captain McNamee, commander of the Ericsson, said that the odd attack occurred about 2:30 a. m. He ventured the opinion that the birds were attracted by the electric lights of the vessel.—Baltimore Star.

PUMP PUZZLES PATIENT BIRD

Feathered Home Builder Drops Straw After Straw Down Bore Which She Could Not Fill.

"The bravest pair of robins I know of attempted to build over the back door at a Milwaukee home, right where the screen slamming made a great noise every time someone went in or out," said Prof. L. D. Peaslee, lecturer at the public museum.

"The family, out of sympathy for the mother bird because they thought it such a bad place for her to rear her young, pulled down the nest twice, but each time the pair rebuilt it. Finally, moved by the insistence of the birds, the members of the family let the nest alone, and the mother bird reared her young there above the door.

"I was told of a bluebird which tried to build in a wooden pump that had the cover off. The patient bird dropped straw after straw down the bore in the pump, but she couldn't fill the hole, and finally desisted from the attempt."

Helpless As a Baby.

Valley Heights, Va.—Mrs. Jennie B. Kirby, in a letter from this place, says: "I was sick in bed for nine months, with womanly troubles. I was so weak and helpless, at times, that I could not raise my head off the pillow. I commenced to take Cardui, and I saw it was helping me, at once. Now I work all day." As a tonic, for weak women, nothing has been found, for fifty years, that would take the place of Cardui. It will surely do you good. Cardui is prepared from vegetable ingredients, and has a specific, curative effect on the womanly organs. Try a bottle today. At your druggist's.—Advertisement.

Conflicting Stories Told.

El Paso, June 30.—The 23 negro troopers of the Tenth cavalry who, at Carrizal, Villa Ahumada, Chihuahua City and Juarez, have been central figures in one of the most striking chapters of the Mexican situation, are safely out of Mexico.

With them came Lem H. Spillsbury, the Mormon scout who guided Capt. Charles T. Boyd and his detachment over the trail that led to the Carrizal encounter. Two stories differing widely were told by the men.
One, told by Spillsbury, upholds statements he was credited with making at Chihuahua charging Capt.
Boyd with obstinacy in advancing in the face of a certain Mexican attack.
The other narrated by men of the Tenth, blames the Mexicans for the ensuing fight.

Their uniforms had been taken from them at Villa Ahumada. They wore a motley collection of hats bought from prisoners in the Chihuahua prison, towels or colored bandanas. Shirts were missing in many instances in lieu of trousers. One had a towel around his waist. Sandals and shoes, not of an army pattern, were on their feet.

WHAT IS HAPPINESS?

The aim of human life, no doubt, is happiness. But after all, what is happiness? Efficiency, wealth, matterial comfort. Many by their lives do so affirm; few are cynical enough to say so; and on their deathbeds none will feel so. Not even freedom in itself brings happiness. Happiness lies in breadth of heart. And breadth of heart is that inward freedom which has the power to understand, feel with, and, if need be, help others. In breadth of heart are founded justice, love, sacrifice; without it there would be no special meaning to any of our efforts, and the tale of all human life would be still no more than that of supremely gifted animals, many of whose communities are highly efficient and have instinctive unity founded on experience of its utility, but none of that conscious altruism which is without perception of future benefit to self and works from sheer recognition of its own beauty.—Atlantic Monthly.

MATTER OF BUSINESS.

Shopper—You may measure another yard of that dress binding, please.

Clerk—Beg pardon, but I understood you to say four yards.

Shopper—Yes, that is what I said, but another yard will make the sale a trifle more binding.

PLAIN FACT.

"There is something crooked about this uphill work."

"I've been suspecting for some time that it is not upon the level."

ONE VIEW.

"Man was made to mourn."

"And woman—?"

"Oh, she was made to see that he does mourn."

THE ONLY ONE.

"Young Bryan reads his own poems very effectively."

"Well, you see he understands them."—Judge.

HIS CONTRARY FATE.

"This man leads a hard life."

"In what way?"

"He is always itching for an office, but has to scratch for a living."

QUITE SO.

"I have just taken my thirty-fourth degree in the Sons of Sparta."

"You'll soon have as many degrees as a thermometer."

IN SUITABLE PROPORTIONS.

"Are the fish thick here?"

"Well, not too thick, sir," answered the native. "We have to use this lake rarely for navigation."

BY NO MEANS MODERN SLANG

Various Terms in Use Today Can Be Found in the Writings of the Bard of Avon.

"Good-night," a terse ejaculation that has taken ranking position among the slang of the day, had its source in no less authority than Will Shakespeare. It took a Hamilton college student to discover that the magic words were frequently used in Shakespeare's plays and with as much variety of meaning as we have been giving to them.

"The idea that 'good-night' has the mark of modernity," declares this student, "is a sad mistake. In act one, scene three, of the first part of 'King Henry IV,' Worcester says he will disclose a matter of Hotspur which is as full of peril 'as to o'er walk a current roaring loud on the unsteady footing of a spear.' To which Hotspur replies: 'If he fall in, good-night!'"

Many other bits of modern vernacular are from Shakespeare, the student says, among them "Go to it!"
"Youse cheese!" "I am for you," "dead drunk" and plenty of others.
And regarding that very favorite phrase, "Beat it," the student says this: "Everyone from ex-president to a newsboy had made use of these to words. Yet in act to, scene one, of the 'Comedy of Errors,' Luciana exclaims: 'Fie! Beat it hence!' After these quotations," he continues, "we are sure that Shakespeare was an old fogey or we are to think by stumbling on the Shakespearean exclamation 'Bully' that it was the immortal Teddy and not Bacon who wrote the plays."

SHOWERED WITH ATTENTIONS

"Now that you are rich, I suppose everybody is anxious to serve you?" "That's the way, it seems. I'm on the lookout all the time for subpoenas."

NONE OF HIS MAKING.

"This is a handsome country home we are passing."

"Yes. It belongs to a man who was only a poor clerk a few years ago."

"Another spectacular rise to fortune, eh?"

"Well, not exactly. I understand the father of the girl he married worked a great many years to accumulate a million."

Memory's a Great Thing.
Not a few brides wear better clothes on their wedding days than they ever do thereafter.—Topeka Journal.
